Client Corner

"Never realized what a grueling year Junior year could be as far as work load and testing. Luckily, TASK has made it so much easier for my 16 year old son. We have used the tutoring for prepping him for the SAT. We will begin ACT tutoring soon. We are very happy thus far with the results. Tutors are all great and so accommodating. Thank you so much."

Avoid the Summer Slide...

Summer = Regression

Common Core = No September Review

As educators, in years past, we were always given the first few weeks of school to simply review the previous year and get kids back into 'learning' mode. With the new Common Core Curriculum and its overwhelming demands, that time to review in September is gone. It is critical to keep students learning and moving forward in the summer months, now more than ever! Even 1-2 hours a week of tutoring can make a dramatic difference in how your child's year begins. Let them be the kid who is a step ahead and not a step behind.
